Aditya-L1

- Indian Space Research Organization (ISRO) has once again created history.
- Aditya-L1, sent by ISRO under the Solar Mission, has recently reached its destination L-1 Point.
- Aditya satellite will continue to study the Sun from a distance of 15 lakh kilometres for the next five years.
- The first Indian space-based observatory dedicated to studying the Sun, Aditya-L1 was launched in September 2023 from the Satish Dhawan Space Center in Sriharikota using a PSLV-C57 rocket.
- Lagrange points are places in space where the gravitational force of two large objects (such as the Sun and the Earth) balances the centripetal force to keep a smaller object (such as a spacecraft) in place.
- Aditya-L1 has seven payloads to observe the photosphere (the direct surface of the Sun), the chromosphere (the second layer between the photosphere and the corona) and the corona (the outermost layer of the Sun).
- These payloads are intended to provide important information on coronal heating, coronal mass ejection, space weather dynamics, and particle & field propagation.

10th-century Kadamba Inscription

- Recently an inscription written in Kannada and Sanskrit has been discovered in the Mahadeva temple at Kakoda in South Goa.
- This inscription is said to be from the Kadamba period of the 10th century.
- The paragraph on this inscription begins with a wonderful sentence 'Be well' i.e. 'Swasthi Shri'.
- This inscription is deciphered by Talara Nevaiya regarding the death of his son Gundayya.
- It is in the literary style of the Talangre inscription of Jayasimha I of the then period.
- The epigraph (an inscription on a building, statue or coin) is inscribed in Kannada and Nagari letters and dates back to the 10th century AD and belongs to the Kadambas of Goa.
- The Kadambas of Goa are descendants of Mayurasharma (founder of the Kadamba Kingdom of Banavasi, 345–365 AD).
