Summary - I started my career as an Educator and over time I became known as a Speed Maths author and Motivational Speaker. My first book on Speed Maths was published in 2004 and I still continue my work as a Speed Math writer. In 2012, I decided to make Speed Maths my profession and got the opportunity to work with TIME and other prestigious institutions. I visited many colleges in India and found students in a state of conflict regarding personality, education, lifestyle and career. I guided them through this conflict and thus became recognized as a motivational speaker. In 2018, I chose to turn that into a vocation and started developing courses on personal development and career planning and since then I have been offering these courses as soft skills training in colleges. I have a positive attitude and want to work on personal development all over the world.
