Project work

DESIGN AND FABRICATION OF WIND MILL

Objective: Our main focus on this project was to improve the efficiency of the wind mill. For increasing the efficiency of wind mill we used continuity equation of fluid which is based on the law of mass conservation. We used a conical duct which is placed between electric fan and armature. When we started the electric fan, air passed into the conical duct whose cross section area is decreases continuously. The velocity of the air at the exit of conical duct was more than the inlet, the high velocity air struck on the wings of the armature and rotates the armature at higher speed as compared to without using conical duct and finally we got succeed in achieving higher efficiency up to 10 to 12%.

Duration of the project: four months
